

LARRY ROBINSON is a twenty-year veteran of theater, film and television. His career has spanned the East Coast from New York City and New Jersey to South Florida. In 2005 he created the role of Shabak, the High Priest, in Nefertiti, A Musical Romance at the Parker Playhouse in Ft. Lauderdale. He won the 2000 "Curtain Up" award for Best Supporting Actor as Corp. Wymo in Buffalo Soldier at the Hollywood Boulevard Theatre.

Mr. Robinson starred in Othello at the Hollywood Boulevard Theatre, and has appeared in a wide variety of productions, including Of Mice and Men (Crooks) at the Gables Stage, Master Harold and the Boys (Sam) at Ironbound Theatre (NJ), The Petrified Forest (Pyles) at Walker St. Theater (NY) and Proposals (Louis) at the Actors' Playhouse. His film credits include roles in Bonfire of the Vanities, Malcolm X, Strapped and the cult-favorite Sgt. Kabukiman. He has also appeared in numerous television commercials, including credits for Miami Herald, Tri-Rail and Medicaid.

Larry is deeply committed to using theatre as a way to educate and inspire young people today. He has toured as both performer and educator in a wide variety of African and African-American themed shows and workshops for several theatre companies. He created the role and travels widely with his well received one-man show, The African-American Portrait Gallery: Discovering Timeless Heroes. His award-winning performance in Buffalo Soldiers also highlighted a group of nearly forgotten African-American heroes. With the Ujama Black Theatre, he has appeared in over 200 schools throughout the US.

Larry also uses his performance skills as a speaker and trainer in presentations and activity workshops for diversity training in schools and the workplace. He has co-authored contributions to the McGraw-Hill Training and Performance Sourcebook on Diversity Education and Training.

He studied at the Winston-Salem School of the Arts and is skilled in voiceovers, dialects and stunts. A New York City based performer for many years, he now resides in South Florida.
